Response to Amendment

Claims 1-27 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-9 and 11-22 of copending Application No. 10/317,165 is withdrawn in view of applicant's arguments.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-18 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Brusk et al (2003/0143262).

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Brusk et al disclose a hygiene tissue to be used for cleaning and caring of the skin and the urogenital area, simultaneously delivers lactic acid producing bacteria suspended in a liquid lipid and optionally additional components (see abstract). Brusk et al further teach that said lactic acid producing bacterial is delivered via absorbent articles, such as sanitary napkins, panty liners and tampons (pages 1-2, 0014) and said bacteria is of the species Lactobacillus plantarum 931 (0042). Brusk et al teach that said lipid includes petroleum, synthetic and animal and plant derived lipids (0043, 0054-0056). With respect to the additional components they include absorbent agents, weak or inorganic acids such as lactic acid; perfumes, antioxidants, inorganic salts such as calcium chloride, surfactants such as anionic, nonionic surfactants; and steroids (0044-0046). The number of probiotic bacteria on the hygiene tissue is preferably  $10^4$  to  $10^{11}$  colony-forming units. With respect to the water activity, Brusk et al teach that the bacterial preparation is about 0.30 or less (0048). See examples and claims.

As this reference teaches all of the instantly required it is considered anticipatory.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Art Unit: 1751

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-18 and 20 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-9 and 11-22 of copending Application No. 10/318,165. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they overlap in subject matter pertaining to a hygiene tissue comprising a lactic acid producing bacteria; a lipid and additional components.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 19, 21-25, 27 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 2-13-2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Brusk et al do not teach or suggest a cleansing tissue with a cleansing liquid on a separate part from a bacterial composition.

The examiner contend and respectfully disagrees because Brusk et al suggest that said tissue is impregnated with a suspension for cleansing and maintaining a healthy microbial flora on the skin (0046). The tissue of Brusk et al would inherently comprise a cleansing part and/or a bacterial part on separate parts of the tissue because said parts would be on different sides or different regions of the tissue.
